Helping families. Protecting children.

Be SMART, STRONG & SAFE

*Activity Book for ages 11
and up*

The purpose of this activity book is to teach you about healthy boundaries and how to be safe. Paying attention to strange behaviours and situations will help increase your safety.

Make sure you talk to safe adults if you're unsure about something.

WHERE TO GO IF YOU OR A FRIEND NEEDS HELP:

- If there is an emergency, call 911 or your town's local emergency number.
- If you need to talk to someone and don't want to give your name, call Kids Help Phone at 1-800-668-6868 or go to: kidshelpphone.ca.
- If something inappropriate or uncomfortable happens online, report it at cybertip.ca or call toll-free at 1-866-658-9022.

cybertip!ca

Cybertip.ca is Canada's national tipline where you can report concerns about kids being harmed on the Internet. This can include:

- Kids sending or posting naked pictures of themselves or others on the Internet
- Coming across naked pictures of kids while surfing the Internet
- An adult communicating with kids on the Internet and asking them to send nude pictures, perform sexual acts or asking to meet in person

WHO ARE SAFE ADULTS?

Sometimes it can be confusing to know who you can go to for help. Learning how to identify safe adults in your life who you can go to if you're feeling uncomfortable or need advice is important. Safe adults are people who make safe decisions around children, protect them and engage in safe behaviour around them. Look at the statements below and circle whether it describes safe or unsafe behaviour.

1.	An adult calls kids out on their behaviour when they step over the line.	(Safe / Unsafe)
2.	An adult shows appropriate boundaries with kids.	(Safe / Unsafe)
3.	An adult plays touching games with kids.	(Safe / Unsafe)
4.	An adult asks kids to play games that seem weird and inappropriate – games kids would feel embarrassed to tell other people about.	(Safe / Unsafe)
5.	An adult coaches children and helps them improve their skills.	(Safe / Unsafe)
6.	An adult shows kids inappropriate movies and lets them break rules that their parents or other adults wouldn't.	(Safe / Unsafe)
7.	An adult asks kids to do things that other healthy adults would not.	(Safe / Unsafe)
8.	An adult threatens to hurt someone.	(Safe / Unsafe)
9.	An adult helps kids when they need it and respects their boundaries.	(Safe / Unsafe)

REMEMBER: an adult can be fun to be around, but if s/he asks children to do things that are uncomfortable or inappropriate, that is unsafe behaviour.

LUCKY BREAK!

I have a friend who is really pretty. I think she could be a model. She loves having her picture taken and poses for them all the time. She likes to pose in front of the webcam for people that she doesn't know. I think she likes it when people tell her how pretty she is. My friend has never modelled in her life, but she wants to.

She was so excited yesterday because she was chatting with this woman on a social networking site who works for a modelling agency. The woman told her that she could help her become a model. She asked my friend whether she had ever posed in front of a camera or ever done a photo shoot.

The woman my friend met asked her to go on the webcam so she could see what my friend looked like. My friend did and the woman said she was really pretty.

She said she could help her become a famous model. The woman also wanted to see a sexy picture of her, so my friend needed to pose in front of the webcam in a shirt and underwear. The woman said if my friend was serious about being a model she needed to be able to do it. Can you believe it? How embarrassing! What I can't believe is that my friend did it! I could never do that – I guess I sure wouldn't make it as a model!

Jealous
age 11

It is ALWAYS okay to go to safe adults for help, even if you do something you feel is wrong.

It is NEVER a child's fault when an adult makes them uncomfortable or does something they shouldn't.

Dear Jealous,

Your friend was tricked! What happened to her is wrong. There is no way this woman was a real modelling agent since no real modelling agent would ask her to do that. Your friend needs help from safe adults so that this doesn't happen again. This needs to be reported to Cybertip.ca.

*Stay safe,
Kate*

CONFUSED

I don't know what to do. My friend told me about something that happened to him last year and it was really awful. I am not sure if I should tell my mom because he made me promise not to tell anyone. He said he would hate me if I told.

A friend of his family spends a lot of time with him, taking him to fun places. The family friend takes him hunting, out to movies and even on trips. Last year he took him camping and when he woke up in the middle of the night, my friend said his pajamas were off and the man was touching him. He said that he ran out of the tent. The man said he was sorry and has never done it again. My friend told me not to tell anyone because he knows that he won't be allowed to see the man anymore if his mom finds out. I don't know what to do.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO??

Confused friend
age 12

Dear Confused Friend,

What happened to your friend is abuse. Your friend was very brave for telling you! This can be very hard to share with someone. I understand how you must be confused about what to do. It is important to remember that what this adult did is not okay. You need to tell safe adults what happened so that your friend gets support and so that this doesn't happen to another child. Let your friend know that this man needs help to stop this type of behaviour.

*Stay safe,
Kate*

FACTS

Did you know?

Just because someone looks weird or is different looking DOESN'T MEAN HE OR SHE IS UNSAFE!

Just because someone is friendly DOESN'T MEAN HE OR SHE IS A SAFE PERSON!

YOU CAN'T TELL IF SOMEONE IS SAFE OR UNSAFE BY THE WAY THEY LOOK!

Paying attention to weird behaviour, getting out of dangerous situations where you feel uncomfortable and telling safe adults about how you felt will help you stay safe.

PAY ATTENTION TO weirdness FROM AN ADULT OR SOMEONE OLDER THAN YOU WHO IS:

- pressuring you to do something that you do not want to do
- saying or doing things that make you feel uncomfortable
- scaring you
- giving you attention that makes you feel singled out from others
- telling you that secret touching is okay
- wanting to give you drugs or alcohol
- wanting to take pictures of you in private (secret pictures)
- not willing to take NO for an answer
- pressuring you to spend time alone with him or her
- wanting to be in a dating relationship or acting like s/he is with you

WHAT TO DO ABOUT weirdness:

TELL SAFE ADULTS ABOUT IT.

Weird things you notice that people do should be shared with safe adults you know who can help you. This can be awkward, but it's important not to try to handle it on your own. Even if you are with a friend, safe adults should be told.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Unbelievably close call! I was searching for music videos online last night and I came across naked pictures of people. At first I thought it was kind of funny so I only looked at one picture, but when I clicked on it there were way more pictures. The next morning my mom went online and saw what I was looking at the night before. She was really upset. I hope she doesn't tell my dad! HOW EMBARRASSING! How would you feel?

Coming across pornography can easily happen online and can make you feel uncomfortable. Remember that pornography isn't real and that the people are actors.

My hockey team had an AMAZING season. We won the city championship! To celebrate, we had a party at my hockey coach's house. Just the guys from the team went; none of our parents were there. We went into the hot tub and then we ordered pizza and watched movies. One of the movies was inappropriate.

My parents would NEVER let me watch a movie like that! It was really uncomfortable and embarrassing!

My coach told us not to tell our parents because we would get him into trouble. It seems so weird.

Why would an adult let us do something that he knows our parents would be mad about?

THAT'S WEIRD!

Watching pornography can be harmful. It often depicts unhealthy relationships!

CREEPY!

I was playing a game online tonight and I started chatting with this guy. He seemed really nice, but then he told me he was 19 years old. He said that he wanted to be my boyfriend because I was awesome. I told him, “Forget it!” But he wouldn’t listen. He started begging me to be his girlfriend. Can you believe it? Something is seriously wrong with this guy. How gross is that? He told me that he had other 12-year-old girlfriends before me. He said I was really mature for my age. I blocked the guy and went and watched TV! If my parents ever found out, I would be grounded forever.

Grossed Out
age 10

Dear Grossed Out,

Way to go! You did the right thing. If someone makes you uncomfortable you need to block him or her right away. Keep up the good work! This is something you need to tell safe adults so that they can take action to protect other kids. It is illegal for an adult to date or behave sexually with kids. What this adult did is wrong.

*Stay safe,
Kate*

Sexual attention from an adult is NEVER okay – it is always the adult that should protect children.

Awesome TIPS:

- ★ If someone makes you feel uncomfortable or you know something has happened that is wrong, it's okay to tell safe adults about it — even if you didn't tell the person to stop or you enjoyed parts of it. It's NEVER a child's fault when someone touches them inappropriately or asks them to do inappropriate things.
- ★ A caring touch from a safe adult that doesn't make you feel uncomfortable, like a hug, is healthy and important.
- ★ It's okay to tell safe adults about something another person does that makes you feel uncomfortable or awkward, even if that person seems very important and is really liked by your family.
- ★ It can be really confusing when an adult or someone you really like does something that you feel bad about, but it's an adult's job to help protect you. Some people need help so that they stop treating kids inappropriately. It's okay for you to tell safe adults about anything you are unsure about. It's always best to check things out .

HEALTHY OR UNHEALTHY BOUNDARIES?

Setting personal boundaries can feel uncomfortable and awkward, but everyone has a right to set personal boundaries. Healthy boundaries include respecting people's limits about what they are comfortable doing or what they do not want to do.

Healthy BOUNDARIES

- Respect private space around people's bodies
- Respect private space around people's personal things
- Remember people's right to privacy when they are changing, showering, in the bathroom, etc.
- Private areas are private
- Private thoughts are private
- Personal information is private

Did you know that ridiculing someone because of their body, thoughts or behaviour represents unhealthy boundaries?

Did you know that sharing private information publicly is an example of unhealthy boundaries?

UNHEALTHY BOUNDARIES

- Grabbing, pulling or hitting someone
- Touching someone when they have asked you not to
- Touching someone's private areas
- Asking someone personal questions when you do not know them well
- Telling people personal information when you do not know them well
- Asking someone personal questions in front of other people to embarrass them
- Making sexual remarks to someone
- Making fun of someone
- Peeking at someone in the bathroom
- Walking in on someone changing
- Taking someone's personal things without permission

QUIZ

Read the following examples and check off whether the boundaries are Healthy or Unhealthy. If the boundaries are unhealthy, explain what behaviour is not okay.

1. Sarah's pencil broke so she reached into Brooke's desk and took one of her pencils.

HEALTHY BOUNDARIES UNHEALTHY BOUNDARIES

If unhealthy, what about the behaviour is not okay? _____

2. While Scott was in his house, Jennifer and Kate thought it would be funny to spy on him through a window.

GLOSSARY:

Deceit • Convincing another person to believe information that is not true or is not the whole truth (maybe it's half true).

Flasher • Someone who shows their private areas to people in public.

Instincts • Signals your body sends to warn you of danger.

Intrusive • Not respectful of others' personal space or privacy. It includes asking someone questions that are too personal, such as, "How much money do your mom and dad make?" Intrusion can also be subtle and happen when someone tests another person's personal boundaries by making comments, asking questions or acting in a way that makes them uncomfortable.

Peeping Tom • The act of secretly watching someone who is changing or is naked when he or she doesn't know you are there. This includes watching someone through a window or peeking at someone changing.

Personal boundaries • A person's own space and privacy. All people need to set personal limits and respect the limits of others.

Pornography • Sexually obscene writings, drawings, photographs or videos.

Private • Away from the sight, presence or intrusion of others.

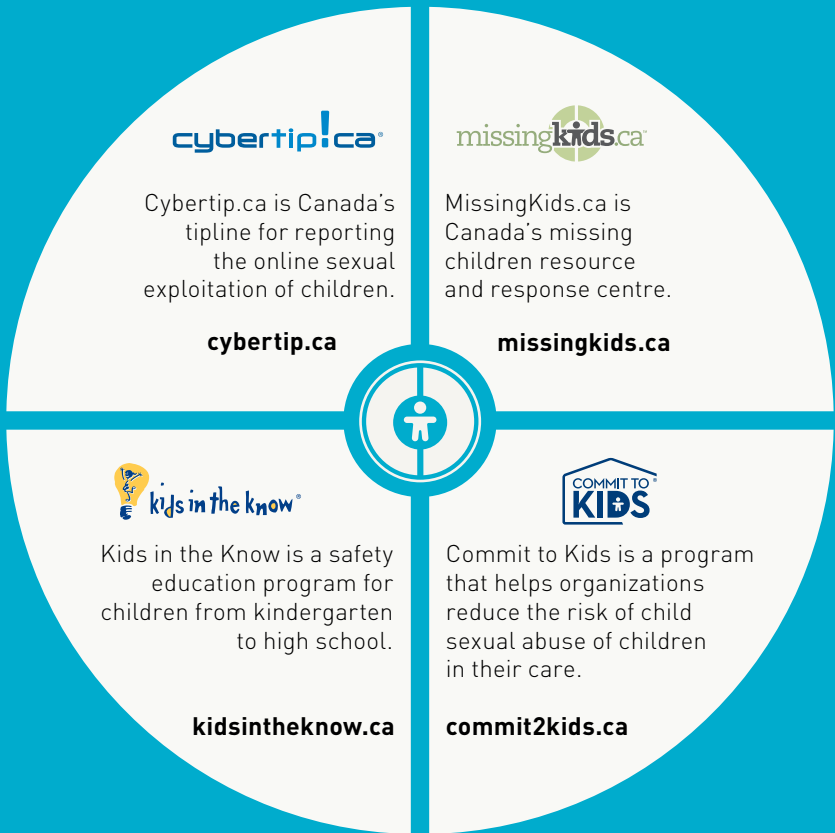

Respect • Treating others with dignity and expecting to be treated with dignity.

Secure • Free from danger or attack.

Sexual abuse • Sexual abuse happens when an adult or older person touches a child's private areas (other than when a child hurts a private area and needs an adult's help, such as a doctor or parent). Sexual abuse also includes an adult or older person asking a child sexual questions about his or her private areas, showing sexual pictures to a child or asking a child to take his or her clothes off, taking a naked picture of a child or asking for a naked picture. It also includes an adult or older person asking a child to look at or touch their private areas. It can happen on the Internet or in real life. It can be forced or not. It can feel bad or uncomfortable and make you scared, but it can also be confusing and even feel good. Any kind of sexual action by an adult or older person towards a child or teenager is illegal.

The Canadian Centre for Child Protection is a charitable organization dedicated to the personal safety of all children. Our goal is to reduce child victimization by providing programs and services to the Canadian public. For more information visit protectchildren.ca.
